VORWORT

Dear Colleague,

You are cordially invited to attend the Freiburg International Conference
"Chronic Inflammatory Disorders of the Lung",
September 28th-29th, 2012 in Freiburg, Germany.

Inflammation involves a broad spectrum of mechanisms being investigated in many different pulmonary disorders and new insights in pathomechanisms gained in one disease may be of high relevance in another. Immunologic, genetic, epidemiologic, and systems biological approaches shape basic and clinical research in inflammatory lung disorders. To accommodate these current scientific strategies, our conference will focus on mechanisms rather than on disorders. Nevertheless, a wide spectrum of diseases will be discussed. Advancements being made in personalized medicine offer researchers, clinicians, and patients themselves an unprecedented chance for individualized improvements of preventative and therapeutic care both for the individual and society-at-large. These strategies will enable personalized medicine which is expected to rigorously change our diagnostic and therapeutic practice and hopefully will improve clinical outcome.

This conference will allow researches and clinicians to learn from progress in neighbouring fields of lung research separated by technical approaches and the organizing committee invites you to submit an abstract of your scientific research to be considered for presentation during the meeting.

We encourage you to attend this meeting, the first international conference on focusing on inflammatory mechanisms of lung diseases, featuring over 30 world leaders in this fascinating field.

Joachim Müller-Quernheim
